

Library's Online Resources Remain Popular Kris Wiley for The News-Review

Roseburg Public Library patrons continue to embrace digital materials.

The library's newest online resource, magazines on the Libby app or Library2Go website, has been especially popular. There were 2,561 magazine checkouts in the first seven months of access, a monthly average of 366.

Cook's Illustrated, National Geographic, The New Yorker and Prevention were among the titles that circulation most.

Patrons have unlimited access to more than 5,000 magazine titles, and they may check out or subscribe to as many titles as they wish. Magazines do not count against the resource limit of six holds and six checkouts for digital books and audiobooks. All magazine publications are available immediately.

Since July 1, magazines accounted for 11.5% of digital circulation. Downloadable audiobooks were 48.5% of circulation, and downloadable books were 40%. Audiobooks and books are available on Libby/Library2Go and CloudLibrary.

Digital materials made up 33% of all circulation. The other 67% was physical materials available on the library shelves.

Library staff is available to help patrons with the digital resources we support. It takes about 20 minutes to set up CloudLibrary and Libby and provide a brief tutorial, so I appreciate folks emailing library@roseburgor.gov or calling 541-492-7051 to schedule an appointment. That said, we are able to help patrons on a walk-in basis most of the time.
